

Aberfeldy 21 Year Old

Distiller Description.

Aberfeldy distillery is a Highland distillery that is well-respected in the Scotch whisky community. The 21 Year is considered one of the better products of this brand and is one of the core expressions. It was released in 2005 to much acclaim and won the 2007 World Whiskies Awards prize for Best Mainland Single Malt. It has a heathery flavor that is typical of its region, but offers a diverse and well-rounded range of elements for both the palate and the nose. It is relatively rich for the region, probably due to those long 21 years in the cask.

Aberfeldy specializes in the making of traditional Highland whiskies and this is a good example. While the 21 year is finished in a sherry cask, it is by no means overwhelmed by sherry flavors. They are present but comprise just a small part of the rich variety of flavors and smells that define the Aberfeldy 21 Year.

Tasting Note by The Chaps at Master of Malt

Nose: Honey, fruity. Thick malt, enlivened by a fresh, zesty quality.

Palate: Smooth, vanilla, undulating, refined smoke.

Finish: Peters out gently, perhaps some ripe white peach notes and a good wave of honey.
